Border-To-Border Trail

The Border-To-Border (B2B) Trail is a long-range plan by Washtenaw County Parks and the Huron Waterloo Pathways Initiative to create a continuous 70-mile network of nonmotorized trails in Washtenaw County from its western to eastern borders. Much of the trail follows along the edge of the Huron River. Working in collaboration with communities along the route, two major sections of the planned trail have been completed so far: from Hudson Mills Metropark to Zeeb Road and from Bandemer Park to North Hydro Park. Construction continues on another major section of new trail from Dexter to Stockbridge, passing through the village of Chelsea.

Hudson Mills Metropark to Zeeb Road

This section of the B2B Trail travels from Hudson Mills Metropark to the city of Dexter and from Dexter-Huron Metropark to Zeeb Road. A half-mile bike/pedestrian route through the city of Dexter (on Central Street) connects one segment of the trail to the other.

walks along the west edge of the Huron River and a 3-mile loop around Hudson Mills Metropark. The 2.6-mile trail through Dexter-Huron Metropark to Zeeb Road begins on Central Street at the northeast side of the railroad crossing. This nicely landscaped scenic trail takes you through shady wooded terrain and three bridges over the Huron River. At Dexter-Huron Metropark you'll find a series of nice picnic areas along the river. The trail section from Zeeb Road to Delhi Metropark is almost completed. Crews are currently building a bridge over the Huron River to finish up this phase of the project.

Huron River Water Trail

Recognized as a National Water Trail, the entire Huron River is navigable and accessible, flowing 104 miles from Proud Lake to Lake Erie. The 9.5 mile section of river, from Hudson Mills Metropark to Delhi Metropark, is very scenic and easily accessible with a riverside campground and five nice launches. This section takes about 3.5 hours to paddle at a leisurely pace. Novice paddlers should portage the rapids at Hudson Mills Metropark and Delhi Metropark.
